PUBLIC SAFETY REALIGNMENT INTRODUCTION

Mark Delgado, Executive Director Countywide Criminal Justice Coordination Committee

Background

Modifies parole statutes and creates local Postrelease Community Supervision (PCS) for criminal offenders released from prison after having served a sentence for an N3 offense.

Background (continued)

Shifts the revocation process for parolees to the county court system over a two-phase, twoyear process.

Projected Impact

- CDCR projected that approximately 9,000 offenders will be released to the Los Angeles County PCS program in Year One (through FY 2011-12). By the end of Year Two, between 14,000 and 15,000 individuals are expected to be under PCS in Los Angeles County.
- In the first two months of realignment, Los Angeles County has received an average of 1,100 PCS individuals per month.

- In addition to the PCS population, Los Angeles County will also be responsible for newly sentenced felony offenders who will no longer be eligible for state prison pursuant to the realignment statutes.
- Attorney's Office indicate that approximately 7,000 to 8,000 felons are currently sentenced to state prison from Los Angeles County each year on charges that will no longer qualify for state prison.

In the first two months of realignment, nearly 800 N3 individuals per month have been sentenced to County Jail under the terms of realignment. These are individuals that previously would have been sentenced to state prison.
